A. AND M. READY TO MEET V. P. I.

Return of Hartsell to Game Makes Team's Chances Brighter.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
West Raleigh, N. C., November 17.—With the definite announcement yesterday morning that Captain Hartsell will be in shape for the Thanksgiving game with V. P. I. in Norfolk next week, A. and M. chances of winning this great game are increased tremendously. Captain Hartsell has not been in shape to play in any of the games this season, except for a few minutes in the opening game with Georgetown, his place as quarterback being ably filled by Stafford. In the game next week, Captain Hartsell will be used at the left end position, which so far this season has been well looked after by Sherman and Davis. With Hartsell and Seifert looking after the end positions, A. and M. will be in the very best of shape.

Interest in the game next week continues to grow, many students in college having already made arrangements to make the trip to Norfolk. Special trains are going to be run by the Norfolk and Southern and Seaboard Air Line to handle the immense crowd that is going from Raleigh and intermediate points along the two lines. Special trains also will be run by the Norfolk and Southern from Goldsboro and Newbern.

Quite a number of parties have already been made up in Raleigh to attend the game in Norfolk. The A. and M. basketball team has secured a game with the Newport News Y. M. C. A. team, to be played in Newport News the night before Thanksgiving. The varsity team will be chosen this week, and from present prospects A. and M. will have a very creditable team. The basketball squad lost a very valuable man in Frank Crowell, of Charlotte, an all-Southern forward, who has withdrawn from college.

In the interclass series of basketball games the past week the Juniors defeated the Seniors, 16 to 8, on Tuesday. On Thursday the Sophomores defeated the Freshmen, 10 to 8.

V. M. I. HAS HARD GAME SATURDAY

Will Meet Strong Georgetown Team in Washington City.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lexington, Va., November 17.—An interesting football contest will be played in Washington Saturday, when Georgetown will meet the champions of the South, lines up against the Virginia Military Institute, head of the second division. Considerable interest is manifested in the game at both places, as for the past several years athletic relations have existed between the two institutions.

The V. M. I. team has daily been growing stronger since its disastrous defeat at the hands of the University of Virginia, a month ago. In its last two games, those against St. Johns and Maryland Agricultural College, V. M. I. has displayed unusual snap and form. The two institutions have proved an added stimulus to greater achievements and with the last game of the season already in sight, the cadet team expects to put up the strongest game of its career.

V. M. I. has ever been noted for the fighting spirit of the team, which it sends out. Although Georgetown greatly outweighs the cadets, it is safe to predict that the game will be no walk over for the Washington contingent, and the spectators of the contest should be prepared to witness a good game and a fight to the finish.

NORFOLK HIGH SCHOOL DOWNS JOHN MARSHALL

Rolls Up 12 Points in Game Full of Excitement and Great Defensive Playing—Seaside Lads Are Heavier—Large Crowd Out.

Outweighed and outgeneraled, the John Marshall High School team succumbed to the onslaughts of the Norfolk High School team and lost the game at Broad Street Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 12 to 0. It was not an empty victory which the Norfolk lads achieved, for the local warriors contested every inch of ground and played a game which made the supporters of the team most proud than ever of the year's record.

Yesterday was the first time during the present season that the John Marshall team tasted the dregs of defeat. In fact, it was the first time that the team had been scored on. Much sorrow prevailed in the camp of the High School followers. But there is little reason for sorrow. The local lads were beaten by a better team. Coach Feuerstein is entitled to all of the praise which he has earned. He has made a great team out of very inferior material.

Fight All the Way.
It was fight from the drop of the hat. Neither team asked quarter and none was given. Norfolk came to Richmond to win and Norfolk won. But victory did not come without a struggle. Outweighed and outplayed, John Marshall struggled on with a courage worthy of the Spartans of old. From the kickoff until the final whistle the play was fast and furious. There was no let-up.

Probably 2,000 people gathered to see the battle. The crowd was for Norfolk, and about this point there was no question. Rooting played a great part in the game. Time and again it seemed probable that Richmond's goal would be crossed, a pleading cry was heard from the cheerers on hand, and the Richmond boys braced themselves and took the ball away from their more sturdy opponents.

Score in First Quarter.
Norfolk scored in the first and third quarters. Hall was the first man to cross the local goal line, and Pender carried it over after a forward pass for the second and last score of the game. Bain circled right end for ten yards. Hall added five in the same place. Ewell to make it unanimous made five yards through the center. Pender carried it over after a forward pass for the second and last score of the game. Bain circled right end for ten yards. Hall added five in the same place. Ewell to make it unanimous made five yards through the center. Pender carried it over after a forward pass for the second and last score of the game.

Still Fighting at End.
Bain circled right end for ten yards. Hall added five in the same place. Ewell to make it unanimous made five yards through the center. Pender carried it over after a forward pass for the second and last score of the game. Bain circled right end for ten yards. Hall added five in the same place. Ewell to make it unanimous made five yards through the center. Pender carried it over after a forward pass for the second and last score of the game.

Principal Harwood, of John Marshall High School, was on the side lines, and stated that he was never prouder of the showing made by his school than in the moments of defeat, and this opinion was held by all of those who watched the game. The best team won, and when this happens no excuses are necessary.

Game in Detail.
Norfolk won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. Warwick kicked to the ten-yard line and Hall brought the ball back fifteen yards. In three rushes, with Hall and Bain carrying the ball, the play was in Richmond's territory. An end run by Bain placed the ball in striking distance of goal. On the next line-up Hall circled right end for eighteen yards and a touchdown. Bain kicked a difficult goal. Score: Norfolk, 6; Richmond, 0. Time consumed in scoring first touchdown, five minutes.

Richmond kicked off to Norfolk's eight-yard line. On the line-up Norfolk was penalized five yards for being offside. The quarter ended with the ball in Norfolk's possession on their forty-five-yard line, second down. Score: Norfolk, 6; Richmond, 0.

Nip and Tuck.
After goal was changed Hall kicked twenty-five yards to Montgomery, who came back seven yards. King failed to gain, and on a second attempt had the same success. Warwick punted twenty-seven yards and was brought back seven yards by C. Moore. Bain failed to gain, but Bain made two and one-half yards. Hall kicked thirty-five yards to King. King went at right yards. Montgomery was more effective and gained three yards. Warwick attempted an onside kick, but the ball went outside and was in Norfolk's possession. Hall recovered it.

An attempted forward pass was intercepted by Sands, and the ball went to Richmond. Time out for Richmond. King was stopped without a gain, but a forward pass from Montgomery to Sands netted thirty yards. A second forward pass, with the same principals, earned twenty yards. A third trial at the same play failed, and the ball went to Norfolk.

Hall kicked thirty yards and the ball went to Richmond. Time out for Norfolk player hurt. King failed to gain. McElroy, on a criss-cross tackle play, gained four yards. An onside kick failed, and Norfolk fell on the ball. Time up for second quarter. Ball on Norfolk's twenty-eight-yard line in her possession.

Third Quarter Eventful.
High School kicked to Norfolk's ten-yard line, and Bain brought the leather back ninety yards by good head work and nerve running. He fumbled the ball when tackled by Sands, but recovered the ball. Time out for Norfolk. Carter hurt. Bain gained three yards. Pierce failed to advance the ball, and Hall kicked thirty-five yards to King, who was downed in his tracks by Hudgins.

King was again stopped without a gain, but Childress got four yards. Warwick was called on to kick, and Hall received the punt, but was stopped by Anderson, who tackled him before he could move a step. On a fake forward pass from a kick formation, Hall went around left end for fifteen yards. Ewell, who had been substituted for Bain at fullback, tried the other end for eleven yards. Bain got five yards, and Ewell again one yard. The ball, on Richmond's twenty-yard line and Ewell attempted a goal from field, but the attempt was blocked, and Pender fell on the ball.

The Norfolk High School boys proved a little too strong for John Marshall High School yesterday, and won the game 12 to 0. Coach Feuerstein had a good team, and he may well be proud of his product. Especially is this true of the two ends, Hudgins and Moore. They covered up so well and allowed points in such a fast fashion that Richmond was unable to bring the ball back.

Summary: Score—Norfolk, 12; Richmond, 0. Touchdowns—Bain (2). Offense—Richardson, referee; Barry, umpire; Dunlop, field judge; Winfree, linesman.

But when the Medical College of Virginia meets the University College of Medicine next Tuesday the real game will be played. No chance for predictions. Just have to wait and see which way it goes.

Vaughan is to be back at end when the team meets Harvard, which increases the chances of the bulldog, about 100 per cent. Don't go too far on past records, and look out for surprises. There have been many during the present season. That's all.

POLICE ON PARADE IN MADISON SQUARE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
New York, Nov. 17.—All were under arrest at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, that is, the attention of all was arrested when a troop of mounted police was in command of the ring. It is over a dozen years since there had been an exhibition or display of mounted police men on the tannery when the park police were the principals. To-night a detail from the traffic squad, a force then not in existence, furnished the interesting exhibition. There was a large attendance, and afternoon and evening there was plenty to keep the onlookers interested.

In an international jumping competition of the afternoon, the prize was the Canadian challenge cup, presented by the Hon. Adam Beck, with four prizes in cash added by the Hotel Association of New York City. A representative of the English team won the cup, which made four victories out of the five international competitions decided for the British officers. Each contestant went twice around the course, which was the usual stuff one, and as all the other meetings of the jockeys in uniform had been at night, it appeared to be a somewhat new element and created a new enthusiasm.

The Nut Takes First.
Lieutenant C. F. Walwin, of the Royal Horse Artillery, did the best work on his bay gelding. The Nut, and won first place. Another Englishman, Lieutenant Geoffrey Brook, Sixteenth Lancers, after a bad ride on his bay mare, Harriet II, brought her stable mate, Harriet I, over the course in fine style, and was second.

The French Dragon, Lieutenant R. Mallarme, with red breeks that made his uniform a bright spot against the brown tannery, beat all the others for the third, and Lieutenant Winfield Sifton, of the Canadian Cavalry, was fourth.

On account of the non-arrival of the Percheron, there was an interpolated parade by the Galt Klittes and followed by all the big Clydesdales and a six-horse team of draft horses in harness.

FATE OF TEAM WILL BE DECIDED TO-DAY
Randolph-Macon Students Deplore Idea of Insubordination, and Faculty Will Announce Decision as to Whether Eleven Shall Be Disbanded, This Morning.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Ashland, Va., November 17.—The fate of the Randolph-Macon football team still hangs in the balance to-night, awaiting the action of the faculty to-morrow morning. The matter has caused much discussion between the students and the faculty, and at one time things looked rather serious in the Yellow Jacket camp. At present, however, indications point to a settlement of the misunderstanding in peace.

The trouble started about a week ago, when Coach Warren and the manager decided to take the squad of players to Richmond, on the morning of the Hampden-Sidney game, and put them to bed, in order to get them away from the students, and get them quiet. Half-day holiday had already been granted the team, and then later all afternoon classes were suspended. The coach and manager therefore decided to take the half holiday in the morning, and did not deem it necessary to so notify the faculty. On Saturday morning, as the squad was about to leave, the chairman of the faculty committee on athletics, informed the coach and manager that several members of the faculty did not think it necessary for them to go. The squad did not leave on that car. The student body then held a meeting, and it being their opinion that the faculty would have no objection to the trip if the conditions were explained to them, told the team to take the next car, and the students would explain the matter to the faculty.

This was done and resolutions sent at once to the faculty. On the Monday following, the faculty took the matter up, and questioned the coach, manager, chairman and three representatives of the student body, as to the apparently unjust action. The faculty, however, judged the action notwithstanding the intentions of the students to the contrary, to be insubordination, and declared the team disbanded.

The students at once wrote a lengthy explanation and apology, assuming all responsibility, and clearing the team. A committee of three was sent before the faculty also, to request that the punishment be visited on the student body, rather than on the team, not that the students thought that punishment was due, but in order to make amends for the appearance of insubordination by their rather hasty action. A report of the matter will be given by the faculty to-morrow morning.

RIVAL TEAMS TO MEET SATURDAY

Annual Game Between Woodberry Forest and Episcopal High School.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Orange, Va., November 17.—The annual football game between Woodberry Forest and the Episcopal High School, of Alexandria, will be played at Woodberry on Saturday, November 19. These two schools are great rivals in athletics. They have played eight football games in as many years. One of these resulted in a tie, and four of the remaining seven were won by Woodberry. Neither eleven has made a good record this season, though a review of the games played indicates that the Episcopal High School has the better team, and a victory would even up scores.

Woodberry's chances for winning received a severe setback this week when Leigh Hyslop, its star ground-gainer, had to leave for home on account of sickness. The Orange team, however, is by no means discouraged and will contest every inch of ground. The game promises to be one of unusual interest.

OFFERING OF STUDENTS TO GODDESS OF VICTORY
Yale Undergraduates Make Grand March on Field Where Team

New Haven, Conn., November 17.—With a band playing favorite Yale airs, and students streaming out for yards behind it, the grand march upon the field, where Saturday's game will be played, was made by the undergraduates of Yale this afternoon. The varsity and scrub players danced around a bonfire, and the castaway equipment was burned as an offering to the goddess of victory. Yale's confidence has risen with the close of active training. The Yale eleven, after a short practice, went to the Lawn Club for dinner. The first eleven went this evening to Meriden to remain overnight at the Country Club there. To-morrow the team will come back here for signal practice.

The Harvard squad came down from Farmington this noon, and went to Yale field for signal practice. The work was light, mostly kicking and the handling of punts. The Harvard men will have a quiet day to-morrow, with no practice except the signals.

Big New York Success.
The big New York and Boston success, "My Man," which came direct from its successful engagement at the Bijou Theatre in New York City, will be the attraction at the Academy on Tuesday and Wednesday and Wednesday matinee.

The play is in three acts and is a drama. It is the story of the "Quality of Mercy." The theme is the psychology of crime and punishment, and the attitude of organized society against the criminal in general, and relates in particular to the story of a young woman, who having made one false step in life, finds it difficult to live her sin down. The atmosphere of "My Man" is essentially New York, the scene being laid in the lower East Side and in the Harlem district. The play tells a simple, vivid and intensely interesting and absorbing love story, with vein of delicately interwoven comedy, and from all accounts it has received the highest critical and popular indorsement in the cities embraced in its preliminary road tour.

WADDILL TO PLAY ON THANKSGIVING
Captain of Washington and Lee Will Be in Line-Up Against Alabama.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lexington, Va., November 17.—Quite a little gloom was dispelled from Coach Pollard's camp to-day, when it was definitely announced that Captain Waddill, of Washington and Lee's star half back, was available to play in at least a part of the Thanksgiving game in Birmingham. Waddill has been out of condition nearly all the year, being kept from the Georgetown game with a bad shoulder, and later receiving an injury to his ankle in the contest against V. P. I. On his account he was not able to get in the game on last Saturday against North Carolina, but this week's practice has finally determined that he will be in shape for more, against Alabama. Burk, half back and end, will act as captain in Waddill's place should the latter be removed.

A strenuous signal practice was held Wednesday and Thursday, continuing far into darkness. In addition to the signal work, Coach Pollard drilled his backfield for a long time in the handling of punts, and also had several short scrimmages to illustrate the practical working of several new plays that have been given the varsity eleven this week. The team have shown remarkable development in the week's work. This improvement of Barker, a man who has heretofore been almost entirely unused on the scrub team, is especially noticeable. It is almost a certainty now that he will play against Alabama.
